ILLUSTRATIONS
Fig. I.1: Map of Syria, showing the location of the kingdoms of Assyria and Hanigalbat in the 13th-12th century BC and the site of Tell Sabi Abyad.
Fig. I.2a: Settlement patterns in the Balikh valley in the 14th century BC (after Lyon 2000: fig. 4).

Fig. I.2b: Settlement patterns in the Balikh valley in the 13th and 12th centuries BC (after Lyon 2000: fig. 7), including possible identifications with Assyrian place names. The catchment area of Sabi Abyad is indicated by a red circle (after Wiggermann 2000: fig. 5).