The initial task of the Institute at the time of its foundation was to promote basic research in the fields of Arabic, Turkish, and Semitic studies. Its objectives have always been broad, ranging from linguistic studies situated in the Middle East. Its aim is to understand the achievement of Turkey’s integration into Europe, and the challenge of Turkey’s integration into Europe, have occupied a central position within the Institute’s research projects.

The initial task of the Institute at the time of its foundation was to promote basic research in the fields of Arabic, Turkish, and Semitic studies. Its objectives have always been broad, ranging from linguistic studies situated in the Middle East. Its aim is to understand the achievement of Turkey’s integration into Europe, and the challenge of Turkey’s integration into Europe, have occupied a central position within the Institute’s research projects.

The Orient Institute pursues diverse research projects supervised by the director and by fellows of the Institute. In addition, it provides scientific activities ranging from social anthropology, political and social sciences to methodological of modern literary criticism.

The Orient Institute pursues diverse research projects supervised by the director and by fellows of the Institute. In addition, it provides scientific activities ranging from social anthropology, political and social sciences to methodological of modern literary criticism.

The Orient Institute pursues diverse research projects supervised by the director and by fellows of the Institute. In addition, it provides scientific activities ranging from social anthropology, political and social sciences to methodological of modern literary criticism.

The Orient Institute pursues diverse research projects supervised by the director and by fellows of the Institute. In addition, it provides scientific activities ranging from social anthropology, political and social sciences to methodological of modern literary criticism.

The Orient Institute pursues diverse research projects supervised by the director and by fellows of the Institute. In addition, it provides scientific activities ranging from social anthropology, political and social sciences to methodological of modern literary criticism.