CURRICULUM VITAE

Christian Michael De Vos (Weymouth, USA, 1978) was a PhD researcher at Leiden University’s Grotius Centre for International Legal Studies from 2010-2012. During this time, he conducted research in the areas of international criminal law and transitional justice as part of the Post-Conflict Justice and ‘Local Ownership’ project, under the supervision of Professor Carsten Stahn and Professor Larissa van den Herik. In addition to his research, Christian lectured in the Grotius Centre’s Summer Schools and served as co-instructor for the course “The Spirit of International Law” (Brandeis University Semester in The Hague, Spring 2012).

Prior to his position at Leiden, Christian worked for such organizations as Amnesty International, the Human Sciences Research Council, the United States Institute of Peace, and the War Crimes Research Office. He also served as a law clerk for two years with the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit’s Office of Legal Affairs. Since 2013, Christian has been an advocacy officer with the Open Society Justice Initiative. He engages in advocacy across the Justice Initiative’s areas of work, focusing in particular on the implementation of international human rights judgments, the strengthening of regional human rights systems, and national accountability for grave crimes.

Christian received his Juris Doctorate from the American University Washington College of Law (2007, cum laude); an MSc in Theory and History of International Relations from the London School of Economics (2004); and a Bachelor of Arts in Government and African-American Studies from Wesleyan University (2000, magna cum laude). He is a member of the New York bar and a term member of the Council on Foreign Relations.
