

DUTCH AND BRITISH COLONIAL INTERVENTION
IN SRI LANKA c. 1780-1815:
EXPANSION AND REFORM

DUTCH AND BRITISH COLONIAL
INTERVENTION IN SRI LANKA
c. 1780-1815:
EXPANSION AND REFORM

Proefschrift

ter verkrijging van de graad van Doctor aan de Universiteit Leiden, op gezag van de Rector Magnificus Dr. D.D.Breimer, hoogleraar in de faculteit der Wiskunde en
Natuurwetenschappen en die der Geneeskunde, volgens besluit van het College voor Promoties te verdedigen op donderdag 30 november 2006
klokke 13.45 uur

door

Alicia Frederika Schrikker

geboren te Utrecht in 1976

Promotor: prof. dr. J.L. Blussé van Oud-Alblas
Co-promotor: dr. L.J. Wagenaar

Referent: prof. dr. C.A. Bayly

Promotiecommissie: prof. dr. H.W. van den Doel prof. dr. F.S. Gaastra
dr. J.J.L. Gommans
dr. J. van Goor
prof. dr. K.J.P.F.M. Jeurgens

CONTENTS

Preface	ix
Glossary	xi
Maps	xiii
Introduction	1
PART I: TEMPTATION ISLAND
Chapter One: Local politics and foreign intrusion	13
1.1 Sri Lanka prior to European arrival: the ancient civilizations	13
1.2 Political fragmentation and drift to the south	15
1.3 Island society around 1500	16
1.4 Portuguese political infiltration and the origin of the Kandyan Kingdom	18
1.5 Dutch Ceylon. The formative years	21
1.6 Political organization of the Kandyan Kingdom	23
1.7 Eighteenth-century Kandyan kingship and Buddhism	27
PART II: THE FIRST COLONIAL TRANSITION: LOCAL GROWTH OF COLONIAL INTERESTS
Chapter Two: Colonial politics in Dutch Ceylon till 1780	33
2.1 Early development	33
2.2 Contradicting policies and subordination to Batavia	35
2.3 A policy for Kandy	37
2.4 Prelude to change	39
2.5.1 Administrative organization of Dutch Ceylon – Company superstructure	40
2.5.2 Administrative organization of Dutch Ceylon – Indigenous input and indirect rule	45
2.5.3 Administrative organization of Dutch Ceylon – Managing indigenous power	48
2.6 Conclusion	50
Chapter Three: Beyond cinnamon: Dutch interior policy 1780-1795	53
3.1 Introduction	53

CONTENTS

3.2 Changing circumstances – the cinnamon plantations	53
3.3 Changing international conditions	57
3.4 Company in crisis	58
3.5 A testing ground in Galle	60
3.6 An island-wide approach	63
3.7 Beyond cinnamon	64
3.8 Creating enterprising headmen	66
3.9 Centralization of power: competition and cooperation	68
3.10 Company servants and native elites: joint ventures	71
3.11 Increased efficiency, land and capitation tax	73
3.12 Troubles in Jaffna	75
3.13 Conclusion	76
Chapter Four: Inland exploitation: the discovery of the periphery	78
4.1 “Broodkamer” ideology	78
4.2 New encounters: a journey around Trincomalee	80
4.3 Clash of cultures: useful versus threatening nature	83
4.4 Civilization as universal remedy	85
4.5 Colonial intervention in the Vanni	86
4.6 Administrative reform in Batticaloa	89
4.7 Conclusion	92
Chapter Five: Dutch perceptions of the colonial order	93
5.1 Developments in Europe	93
5.2 Ceylon and the colonial criticism	97
5.3 Van de Graaff’s “response”	100
5.4 The vision of Jacques Fabrice van Senden	102
5.5 Thomas Nagel and the Vanni	103
5.6 An ideal image: the colonial ruler as humanitarian father	107
5.7 Jacob Burnand’s practical reflections	108
5.8 Conclusion	111
Chapter Six: Isolation and disintegration: the Kandyans and the Dutch	113
6.1 Diplomatic relations after 1766	113
6.2 Official Dutch policy 1785-1795	115
6.3 Ulterior motives: the Sluijsken – Van de Graaff controversy	119
6.4 Revenue and conspiracy	121
6.5 Political developments in the kingdom: Rajadhi, his nobles and the Europeans	122
6.6 The aftermath: Batavia’s opposition and Van de Graaff’s prophecy	125

CONTENTS

PART III: THE SECOND COLONIAL TRANSITION: IMPERIAL DESIGN AND LOCAL PRACTICE	129
Introduction	131
Chapter Seven: Regime change and transitional politics (1795-1798)	131
7.1 The incorporation of Dutch Ceylon in the British Empire	131
7.2 The capitulation of Colombo	133
7.3 1795-1798: coconuts and dubashes	135
7.4 The Dutch approach revisited	138
7.5 Regime change and collaboration	140
Chapter Eight: A new destiny for Ceylon 1798-1805	142
8.1 Transition to crown government	142
8.2 Pacification of the remaining Dutchmen and judicial reform	143
8.3 Internal strife and change in the revenue department	146
8.4 From bulwark to granary	147
8.5 Dundas' scheme	147
8.6 North's drift	152
8.7 A failed mission	154
8.8 Conclusion	158
Chapter Nine: 1805-1815: towards a new order	160
9.1 North's heritage	161
9.2 The fate of the Dutch stay-behinds	163
9.3 Cutting expenses	165
9.4 Understanding the island and the Dutch system	168
9.5 Changes in the departments of justice and the native department	169
9.6 Agricultural development	171
9.7 The periphery	172
9.8 The aftermath: accommodation to local traditions	175
9.9 Conclusion	178
Chapter Ten: British Ceylon and the Indian experience: connecting policies	180
10.1 In search of a proper rule for India	180
10.2 Frederick North and the Bengal reforms	185
10.3 Thomas Maitland and the return of the European despot	188
10.4 Simultaneous trends in Madras	191
10.5 Maitland and native headmen	194
10.6 Conclusion	195

CONTENTS

Chapter Eleven: The colonial project completed: the fall of the Kandyan Kingdom	177
11.1 Defining a course: Colombo the EIC, and the Secretary of State	177
11.2 North's ambitions and the first Kandyan war	199
11.3 A period of passive appeasement	201
11.4 Irresistible temptation	202
11.5 The Kandyan factor	204
11.6 The Sinhala consciousness debate	205
11.7 The stranger king as political factor	207
11.8 Long-term view of Kandy's collapse	208
Chapter Twelve: Conclusions and reflections	211
12.1 The first and second colonial transition: long-term processes	211
12.2 The colonial interplay: characteristics of Dutch and British rule	212
12.3 Connecting debates	215
12.4 Clashes, cooperation and negotiation	216
Notes	219
Appendix	253
Bibliography	255
Samenvatting	265
Curriculum vitae	271

PREFACE

They say that writing a PhD thesis is a lonely affair, but that is only part of the story. In the last four years I have been fortunate enough to work with a great variety of people, through the TANAP project and the CNWS (School of Asian, African and Amerindian studies). Although I wrote the thesis entirely by myself, some people have helped me greatly by giving me their feedback on my writing. The comments I received from Prof. Dr Nira Wickramasinge and Dr Hugo s'Jacob at the TANAP conferences in Yogyakarta and Xiamen respectively were certainly useful. The TANAP seminars in which all TANAP students participated were a great platform to discuss new ideas and compare our findings. The same goes for the cohort-meetings at the CNWS, where fellow PhD students, but from very different fields, commented on each other's chapters. I regret that Leiden prescriptions do not allow me to thank my promotor and co-promotor.

Although I was already well acquainted with University life as an undergraduate, I got to know the University in a very different way as a PhD student. The well-organized CNWS, with Ilona Beumer and Wilma Trommelen as its backbone, provided a good working environment. Through the CNWS I met new people from all over the world and made new friends like Rivke Jaffe, Anna Beerens, Willemijn Waal, Daan Kok. I would also like to thank the "South Asian Club", led by Dr Jos Gommans, for introducing me in the wider study of South Asia, and the good company when I just started my research.

TANAP had its own base in the persons of Dr Henk Niemeijer and Marijke van Wissen-van Staden, without whom the project could never have succeeded. It was a unique experience to work together with fellow TANAP students, who I have come to regard more as friends than mere colleagues, Kwee Hui Kian, Liu Yong, Bhawan Ruangsilp, Ricky Goedeman, Ota Atsushi, Ryuto Shimada, Muridan Widjojo, Sri Margana, Hoang Anh Tuan, Chris Nierstrasz, C'hui Hsin-hui, Nirmal Devasiri, Binu John, Ghulam Nadri. I will never forget Anjana Singh's energy and enterprising zeal when travelling together through China and South India – I am sad that this era is approaching its end.

The research for this thesis was executed at various institutes in London, The Hague, Jakarta and Colombo. I am grateful for the good working atmosphere offered by all these institutions and the generally very helpful staff. I have special memories of the Sri Lanka National Archives, where the help I received was most personal thanks to the friendly staff at the reading room and the personal attention of the director, Ms. Dr Saroja Wettasinghe. I would like to thank Nirmal, Shirani and Hiranyada for making my life in Colombo so agreeable and Nirmal in particular for always keeping me updated on Sri Lankan politics and Sinhalese culture. Furthermore, I would like to thank Amice and Mahendra Dissanayake for their friendship and Sepa and Sunitra Ilangakoon for their hospitality while staying in their fantastic house. My long-term research in London was made possible through the kind intervention of Dr Felipe Fernandez Armesto, who arranged an exchange between Leiden University and Queen Mary's college, University of London. I thank the LUF for subsidising this stay in London. For my short-stay visits to London I could always rely on Gillian, Susannah and Michael for a bed and a warm welcome.

Closer to home, I am grateful to my Leiden base: de Damesclub in its broadest sense, for reminding me that beer and fun are as essential ingredients to a good thesis as are books and archives. Of course I would like to thank my family, my brother Simon and his wife Renie who worked so hard on their own breakthroughs in the last years. And, of course, my mother, An, for stimulating my interest for history in general and that of the East in particular from an early age onwards. I thank my father André for supporting me in this "soft" project, despite his absolute preference for "real" science; Job's parents Rina en Thijs for creating Job and finally, I thank Job just for being there – always.

GLOSSARY

accodomodessan	Land granted in return for duties or services or offices held.
adigār	One of the two principle ministers in the Kandyan kingdom; title for headmen in Jaffna.
ande	Type of landholding, based on a share of one half.
attepattu mudaliyār	Headmen serving the disāva (dessava).
aumildar	Native agent in British India.
badda	A group of people belonging to one particular caste organized for service or bound to supply certain provisions to the state.
basnāyaka nilamē	Lay head of a dēvalē (shrine).
broodkamer	Breadbasket – referring to the ideal to produce rise in one part of the Island to furnish the rest.
cangany	Native official of low rank, for example head of a caste.
canicopoly	Native official of low rank, usually writer or bookkeeper.
Chalia (Salāgama)	Sinhalese Caste, responsible for peeling the Cinnamon.
chank	Mother of pearl.
cbēna	Forest burnt and cultivated at intervals; mostly sown with fine grains and vegetables
commandeur	Dutch official, heading a commandement .
commandement	Dutch administrative division.
coir (kayer)	Coconut fibre.
dākum	Tribute, paid to the king by officers of the Kandyan kingdom.
dēvalē	Hindu/Buddhist Shrine.
devalagam	Land belonging to a shrine.
dessava	Administrative head of a province, dessavony , in the regions administered by the Dutch.
dessavony	Province in the regions administered by the Dutch.
disāva	Administrative head of a province, disāvany , in Kandy.
disāvany	Province in Kandy.
dispensdorp	Villages leased out as payment for offices.
dubash	Native agent or middleman, working for the British in South India.
fiscaal	Public prosecutor.
gabadāgama	A royal village.
Goyigama	Caste of farmers, highest caste in the Sinhalese caste hierarchy
gravetten	Borders.
Heeren XVII	“Gentlemen Seventeen”, board of directors of the VOC in the Netherlands.
Hoge Regering	Highest VOC authority in Asia, government seated in Batavia.
hoofdtombo	Register of people.
hoofd pedie (headpedie)	Headman in Batticaloa.
Inlandsch departement	Department for the interior (Dutch period).
kafirs	African slaves and soldiers.
Karāva	Caste of fishermen.
kiate	Teakwood.
koopman	Merchant, high ranking VOC official.
kōrāla	Chief of an administrative subdivision called kōrālē .
kōrālē (corle)	Administrative subdivision of a dessavony / disāvany .
landraad	Landcourt, dealing with all sorts of civil cases in the interior.
landdrost	Bailiff.
land tombo	Land register.
lascarin	Indigenous soldiers, but also employed as messengers and guards

Mahabadda	The cinnamon department.
mahā mudaliyār	Highest native official in the service of the colonial government, advisor of the governor.
maha nayaka	Chief priest of a Buddhist establishment.
maha nilame	The first adigār , highest official in the Kandyan Kingdom.
majoraal	Village head.
mallepalle	Service land that is returned to the crown.
Memorie van Overgave	Memorandum submitted by Dutch governors and commandeurs for their successors.
mudaliyār	Native headman, district head in service of the colonial government. Originally: military officer heading the lascorins .
mubandiram	Native officer below the mudaliyār in rank.
nainde	Lowest member of the farmers caste, obliged to perform manual labour.
negotieoverdrager	Commercial bookkeeper.
nielepalle	Service land that is returned to the Crown.
nilame	High official, chief.
oeliām	In Tamil regions: a service of one day a month on the public works. In the Southwest: service labour performed by Moors, Chetties and other “foreigners” in return for the permission to stay on the island, usually three months a year.
oelias	One of the lower castes, performing service as dancers and carriers of timber.
ola	Palm leaf, used to write on.
onderkoopman	Submerchant.
Oosterling	Soldier from the Indonesian archipel, in service of the VOC.
opperhoofd	Chief.
opperkoopman	Headmerchant.
opziender	Overseer.
otte	Type of land (usually the less fertile lands) for which the owner pays one tenth of tax in kind.
parra	Measure of grain, 1 parra equals 24 pounds.
parese	Official meeting, where the inhabitants pay homage to their lord (governor, dessava or headman) usually by giving presents.
pattu	Subdivision of a kōralē .
plakkaatboek	Compilation of all plakkatēn .
plakkatēn	Proclamations issued by the Dutch government.
poligar	Native officers, chiefs in South India.
radala	Class of chiefs or nobles in the Kandyan Kingdom.
nājakāriya	Duty to the king, any service to the king, a chief or a vihāra .
Rājarata	The ancient civilisations in the Northern dry zone of the island.
rāta	District or province in the Kandyan kingdom.
ratāmahatmayā	Chief of a rata or district in the Kandyan kingdom.
ryotwar, ryotwari	Peasant in South India, here in connection to the distinctive system of taxation developed by the British.
recibedor	Tax collector in the Jaffna region.
Salāgama (chalia)	Caste of cinnamon peelers.
Sangha	Buddhist monastic order.
schaggerij	Pub.
thunval	Land leased on a tax of one-third.
tombo	Register.
vanniyār	Semi-independent ruler of the Vanni province.
vidānē	Village official.
vihāra	Buddhist temple.
viharagama	Land belonging to a Buddhist temple.
visitateur	Auditor.
zamindar, zamindari	Tax collectors of the Mughal court, landholders with judicial duties.

Map of South and Southeast Asia

Armand Haye, Amsterdam

Map of Sri Lanka (1780-1815)

Armand Haye, Amsterdam